A Trust is governed by, and construed according to, the law of the jurisdiction where it is established, (a) even when enforced elsewhere. Thus a Connecticut beneficiary could not be deprived in New York, by the New York statute forbidding alienation, of the power of pledging stock which he had under the law of Connecticut; (6) and in such matters the decree of the court establishing the trust in the original jurisdiction is conclusive in all jurisdictions; (c) but a trust is invalid if it is contrary to the law or policy of the jurisdiction where it is sought to enforce it. Thus a trust of land for a beneficiary in a jurisdiction where the beneficiary cannot hold land himself is invalid.¹ A trust can be enforced wherever the property is itself,² or wherever personal service can be got on the...

Undoubtedly, this is the best function by any writer. This really is for those who statte there was not a really worth reading. Its been written in an exceptionally basic way which is merely right after i finished reading through this book by which really transformed me, change the way i really believe.
